

FOOD HOME: URBAN FARM

Urban Farm is the first phase of the new "Food Home" campus, an urban farm, market, and community education space. This new construction will include a 10,000 square foot aquaponic growing area, processing space, shipping/receiving, offices, storage, training room, display spaces, and covered outdoor area. Located in North Tulsa the intent of the nonprofit is to "transform food deserts and the legacy issues created by living food-insecure through community partnership, education, and innovative solutions."
