

CROWE & DUNLEVY

Crowe and Dunlevy, a legal office that has offered comprehensive transactional and litigation services for 120 years decided to move their Tulsa office to 222 N. Detroit in Downtown Tulsa. As the first tenants in the new building, Crowe and Dunlevy teamed up with Ethos Architects to design an industrial and sophisticated office that holds true to the nature of the building and character of Downtown Tulsa.

The office space is located on the building's sixth floor, and includes over 34,000 square feet. Additionally the space has outdoor terraces that provide expansive downtown Tulsa views. Ethos designed the office space to highlight functionality, technology, connectivity, and efficiency for the end users. A work café provides a modern approach to the office, allowing for interaction among the attorneys, staff, and clients. The space also features an art gallery installed outside of the main conference rooms, with windows to the gallery highlighting the firm's collection of works by Tulsa artists spanning 30 years. This space highlights the industrial atmosphere of the building and Ethos added modern materials to elevate the interior for Crowe and Dunlevy, which emphasizes the established and successful history of the company.
