

ZINK RANCH CONFERENCE CENTER & MUSEUM

The Zink Ranch Conference Center and Museum is a 26,000-square-foot facility that serves as a hub for ranch operations, gatherings, and historical preservation. The building houses offices for ranch staff, a conference center with a catering kitchen, and a private museum designed to celebrate the legacy of the Zink family and their lasting impact on industry, philanthropy, and the region.

Through immersive exhibits and curated displays, the museum highlights John Zink's automotive and racing achievements, the history of Zink Ranch, the family's philanthropic contributions, and the evolution of their business ventures into present-day Zeeco. Scheduled for completion in 2027, the project reflects a thoughtful integration of workplace, event, and exhibition spaces. Ethos is providing architecture, interior design, and exhibit design services to create a destination that honors the past while supporting future generations.
